Some of the lumber was used in the construction of the meeting house was carried on the backs of men from the mountain to the mountain, a distance of about a mile. The majority of the Kentucky churches are expected to make their special offering to World Relief July 28 and to give at least six percent of their total income for 1945 as their part.

Dr. H. N. Hobbs

D. R. H. Hobbs, the Baptist Hour speaker for next Sunday morning, July 28, enjoyed a most successful ministry as radio preacher over a period of years while pastor of the Emmanuel Baptist Church of Alexandria, Louisiana, as announced by the Radio Committee S.B.C., S. P. Love, Director, Atlanta, Georgia.

Dr. Hobbs has recently accepted the great Dauphin Way Baptist Church of Mobile, Alabama, his native state.

The Atlanta announcement states that his message on "The Lifting Power of the Cross" will be most interesting to all, and especially to thousands of young people and girls who will be special guests in the broadcast.

The Junior Superintendents in the 2408 Sunday School of the Southern Baptist Convention have been invited to hold Junior breakfasts that morning and listen to the broadcast in groups, and according to Mr. Love, there are many promises of many hands and such breakfasts being held. How wonderful for so many faithful citizens of America and church leaders to be meeting to listen to the same message and music. It is a glorious fellowship.

Wake up KENTUCKY
BY EWING GALLOWAY

TELL THE TOURISTS
One of the guards at Kentucky Dam the other day told me the average number of visiting sightseers on Saturdays and Sundays was about 2,000 a day. I thought that was pretty good. Then I took a look at the license plates on long rows of cars in the parking area. Instead of dozens of cars from all over the middle west I discovered that practically all of them were from Kentucky counties, my own within 75 miles of the Dam.

On the way from Henderson, via Route 60 as far as the Tennessee River bridge, I was impressed by the absence of road signs telling where Kentucky Dam was and how to get to it. The only sign I could find on that trip and on two subsequent journeys to the Dam, returned by different routes each time, was at the junction of the Paducah-Hopkinsville road with the short blacktop that leads directly to the Dam. It was put up when the Dam was under construction, and is now so badly faded it is hard to read at a distance of 200 feet.

This absence of road signs telling about the greatest, most picturesque man-made thing in Kentucky solves the mystery of the absent sightseers from outside the State. The folks down in that end of the State had learned next to nothing from advertising. They got the publicity by word of mouth. The Murphy went to see the Dam, and told the Joneses about it, and the Smiths went, and told the Clarks. Effective, this oral advertising, but too slow to reach Maine and Oregon and Arizona and the generations I am telling this story to re-emphasize a previous contention of mine that the Kentucky Dam is the pride of our State. Kentuckyans are practically mute.

In Evansville, Ind., a few days ago the State Highway Patrol stopped me and gave me my car a thorough over-haul. Examining my brakes, lights, dimmer switch everything involved in safe driving. Then they had me put a sticker on my windshield so that I would not be held up again. When I got back to Henderson I asked the Kentucky Highway Patrol if they had orders to inspect all cars. A patrolman said that was the plan. It was nation-wide. I hope the Kentucky authorities really mean to do the job properly.

What a lot of people can't understand is why, in view of the fact that the automobile is the most common mode of travel, that a toll of about 35,000 lives a year in the United States, inspection

here IS something!

Helm, a veteran of both wars, is covering the entire state, in addition to making an active radio campaign.

Former chairman of the Louisville and Jefferson County Democratic Committee, Helm is seeking Federal aid for state schools, colleges as well as secondary schools.

"If I am elected to the Senate," Helm said, "I will seek more Federal aid for Kentucky schools, but without Federal direction or control in any way. This program has been advocated by the Kentucky Educational Association and I propose to support it strongly. I am in favor of such surplus Army equipment as can be used being turned over to the schools for their use."

Speaking of the Hill-Burton bill, now pending in Congress, which would provide aid to non-profit hospitals that meet standards he declared, "This measure has the approval of the American Medical Association and of medical and hospital groups throughout the country. I am heartily in favor of this measure."

Helm stated that "This measure is for continued United States leadership in international affairs."

A native of Auburn, Ky., Helm lives in Louisville, where he is an engineer. In World War I, he volunteered for the Army and served more than a year as an enlisted man in the infantry before being commissioned. He served 27 months in all. He likewise volunteered to serve in World War II, and became a captain and later a major in the Air Force, serving 30 months in the European Theater. He has always been an active member of the American Legion.

John Strohm, president of the Agricultural Editors' Association, now traveling in Europe, writes: "Farmers over here generally are working very hard against terrific odds to produce a much food as possible this year. They're spading the ground if they don't have plows. They're pulling plows by hand if they don't have oxen or tractors. They need fertilizer and draft power particularly."

"The long term agricultural problem is the acute shortage of land in Europe — at least the majority of the countries, Greece, for instance, has only 4 and 5-acre farms. — Income above living is only about $123 per farm family a year."

"The United States is sort of an outer garden of heaven in the eyes of most farm people abroad. And if you'd seen, as I have, the burned-out villages of Greece, the graves of Yugoslav farmers who were buried where they fell, the tools and land and governments they work with — then you'd tell your readers to thank their lucky stars for the accident of birth that made them American farmers." — From The Progressive Farmer.

Veterans Should Get Acquainted With Contact V. A. Representatives

He is an information specialist, advisor and counselor. A veteran himself, he always is ready to lend a helping hand to other veterans and their families. His work is unique, yet personalized and purposeful.

In short, he's a Contact Representative for the Veterans Administration.

To assist and advise veterans, dependents and beneficiaries of their rights and benefits established by law, the Veterans Administration has placed Contact Representatives in populated areas throughout the United States and in our overseas possessions.

The Contact Representative in Jefferson County is Jerome J. Vandenberg, whose office at the Jefferson County Fire Station serves East Jefferson County. Mr. Vandenberg visits Jefferson County every Thursday.

Actually, the Contact Representative is the central link between the Veterans Administration and the public. In the communities where they are assigned, they represent the functions of the Veterans Administration. What they do and say has a vital effect on the lives of thousands of veterans.

Contact Representatives must have knowledge of the laws, regulations and services of other organizations in order to refer persons requiring special or technical information to the proper agencies. They frequently serve on various interested committees.

county and state committees and they work in close cooperation with civic groups, service organizations and the Red Cross.

In one respect, Contact Representatives are ambassadors of goodwill for the Veterans Administration. They must have patience and understanding-down-to-earth reasoning in the problems of every veteran. Tact and diplomacy are essential.

Every veteran deserves a forthright answer to his problem. If the veteran is right in his demand for a certain benefit, the Contact Representative will help him get that benefit. But if the veteran is wrong, the Contact Representative's duty is to show the veteran why he is wrong.

Service provided by Contact Representatives covers a wide range of benefits. Some of the more important are insurance, vocational rehabilitation and education, loans, pensions and compensation, mental treatment, hospital and domiciliary care, burial and funeral expenses. Some of the services is complex, involving legal matters.

The most common inquiries received by Contact Representatives concern job-training, education and insurance. However, full and satisfactory service must be given all matters referred to them.

Contact Representatives regard every veteran who walks into their offices in search of advice and assistance as an individual who has richly earned the attention and service he asks.

For a veteran of 25, the National Service Life Insurance premium is 25% lower for ordinary life insurance than the figures obtained by averaging premiums charged by the leading mutual companies. It is true that private companies pay higher dividends, but the National Service Life Insurance is still a great money maker.

N. S. L. I. monthly income is 30 percent to 35 percent more than the average of ten leading private companies. For example, a 25-year old soldier pays $10.00 in Government Life Insurance for $162.50 a year. Taking the average of ten leading companies, $162.50 will buy only $77.60 in insurance. The $77.60 policy will pay a 55-year old widow $84.00 monthly, as compared to $60.30 from the Government policy.

Just in case veterans think they are safe now that the war is over, statistics show that in auto accidents alone, as many as 100,000 people probably will be killed in the next five years as died in combat. The record books of insurance companies show that 43% of all men aged 25 now will be dead in ten years.

Again, veterans who have allowed the policies to lapse are urged to have them reinstated as soon as possible. Any representative of the Ex-Service Men's Board will please to assist veterans with either the reinstatement from the number of counties S. L. I.

COUNTY EXHIBITS at the Kentucky State Fair this year will set an all time record, judging from the number of counties who have already signed the intentions of showing their county's products. The allotted space for the fair grounds has been doubled to care for the increasing number of exhibits.

Mr. J. H. Shively, Mrs. Alga Baird and Mrs. Fieleya Fredrick called on Mrs. Tracy Miller Sunday and found her improving and able to be up part of the time.

Life Insurance

Veterans who have allowed their life insurance policies to lapse may now reinstate them without physical examination. If application and payment of premiums are made within six months after date of separation from active service or before January 1, 1947, if the veteran is in as good health as when was at the time the policy lapsed.

As an example, if the veteran was in good health when he was discharged, maintains his premium payments, develops tuberculosis and some months later lets his premiums lapse, he is still considered in comparative good health and therefore eligible for reinstatement, provided that the tuberculosis is not at a more advanced stage than it was when the premiums were allowed to lapse.

A veteran in comparative good health may reinstate his original life insurance policy either through the local office of the Veterans Administration or by a representative of the National Service Life Insurance Company.

It is advisable (but not compulsory) to enclose a money order or check made out to the U. S. Treasury for a sum double the premium paid or last deducted from the service pay. Under the regulations of the Veterans Administration, this is all the veteran has to pay; the two premium payments are for the one currently due and one for the next year.

This extension of reinstatement of National Service Life Insurance is particularly significant because it is available to many veterans and especially to those who have suffered physical disabilities and who might therefore, never be able to qualify for private insurance.

Physical and mental examinations required of an applicant for reinstatement of the insurance, can be had free of charge from the National Service Life Insurance, or from full-time or part-time physical therapists at regional offices or hospitals of the Veterans Administration.

Examinations also may be made by private physicians at the applicant's own expense provided the physician is not related to or connected with the insurance company, and is not pecuniarily interested in the policy or its reinstatement.

SMOKE RINGS

By -
Charlie Vettiner

Copyright Applied For

All smoke rings will be concentrated tomorrow. There will be no need wasting wind blowing them all over the county when everybody will be in Fairdale at those Junior Olympics.

Check some of these names to see which of your county friends will be there. From Buchel will come the Scotts, Watsons, Allgeers, Masters and Middletons.

From Okolona you may expect the Knaights, Bales, Redmans, Millers, Settles and Hornbaks, while from Fern Creek will come the Eggs, Dawsons, Thompsons, and Palmers.

Then from here, there and everywhere will come the Hobbs, Prestons, Covins, Metcalles, Grabowskis, Stonefields, Sanders and Kinesholes.

Smoke Ring fans... these are the names section. When you come to those Junior Olympics at Fairdale tomorrow at 1 P. M., look for friends you haven't seen for years.

There's no better recreation than bumping into a friend you haven't seen for a long time.

Smoke, who honored Ed Torrick with one of his famous old pipes this week, will be there with a pocket full to give personally to people like Mrs. Nelson Hornbark, Finner and Mrs. Sandridge of St. Matthews.

Ladies like Mrs. Hornbark, Mrs. Sandridge, Mrs. Finner, Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Slattery and Mrs. Finley are honored because they love boys and girls enough to let them smoke.

Drifted out Middletown Saturday night to crown the king and queen of the Carnival and was one of the crowd and the eagerness of those Middletowners.

Got quite a kick out of seeing Vance Walker pulling the tops of the bottles and Lee Tinsley serving as a "barker" on the midway.

If those chaps could work that hard at home Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Tinsley could live the "Life of Riley" just like Flossie does.

Even saw Ernie Wolford at the carnival. Ernie, who is one of the best basketball players in Kentucky, is an old officiating friend of Smoke Ring's.

You know it's time to blow a smoke ring in the direction of "Red" Hagan, who is handling the Junior Olympics for the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board.

Hagan, who has really "hit the ball" this week lining up things for the big event, has done himself proud and at the same time the popular fellow has done something for more than 400 county youngsters.

You guessed it - "Red" On Top! Hagan gets a Smoke Ring pipe because he's done something for somebody.

And now here's a smoke ring to Johnnie Osbourne at Lyondon. You did a great job at the Lyondon playground and now, says Richard that your word, sues Richardson, is doing the same.

Attention Jim Floore - got a nice picture of your baseball team for the last year. You had a lot of fun, didn't you? Well, you want to see it O.K. - it's sticking on the Jeffersonian's front window.

Ever met Tommy Gilpen over at Okolona. Known Tommy and Mrs. Gilpen a long time. Here's a couple of great folks. So are Harold and Mildred Mont, Raymond and Daisy Nolle Hornbark and T. T. and Mrs. T. T. Knight.

It takes friendly people to make a town and county what it is. "Smoke" loves counts, Okolona's a friendly place.

The last old "Smoke" Ring was there he mooched Motherday's for ice cream, bummed a hamburger from Lloyd Redman, and had a handful of redies from "Shavins" Hornbark's garden.

Got almost as much to eat as Ray Eiser got at Milton Penn house last week. Here's a tip, Milton - look up your ice box when you see Ray come.

Flossie sent Mrs. Bluma Bales 3 pounds of tomatoes Saturday night. She'll stay all night before he got home.

Smoke's last ring goes to Betty Sanders, Valley, and Jay Black, Auburndale who are studying Journalism at the University of Louisville. They are great and either get rich at it or you end up blowing "Smoke Rings."

See you all at Fairdale tomorrow - you'll recognize me by the pipe - bring some matches along with Mrs. Kirch so Louie and I can light.

CAMP TAYLOR NINE PLAYS MIDDLETOWN

CHARLES VETTINER, Editor.

The Camp Taylor baseball team, which represents Jefferson County in the State Semi-Pro tournament at Pikeville this week, drew Middletown as a first round opponent. Jim Kirk and Martin Metcalfe, co-managers of the Camp Taylor nine, are confident that their boys will make things plenty tough for the Middletowners.

Proceeds of the tournament are divided as follows: 20% to the winning team and 20% to the losing team. There's a little standing in the meet. Joe Grabowski, who is financing the Camp Taylor trip to the mountains, stated that all prize money, won by the team, must be turned over to the Taylor Memorial Park Recreation Committee to be used for furthering Camp Taylor recreation.

Other teams in the tourney are: Science Hill, Benton, Pikeville, Williamsburg, Hazard, Ashland, Prestonsburg, Corbin, Hardbury, Pee Wee Valley, Albany, Pruden, Paduch and Corbin.

The tourney will be held at the national tournament at Wichita, Kansas next month.

Leisure Time In Jefferson County

By Warden Dorsey, Jr.

Leisure time. The time one spends between work and sleep. In Jefferson County, the Leisure Time is being furthered by the idea of recreation in our communities.

Arts, crafts, music, folk dances, games, drama, physical activities, and plans for the festival and the fair are being planned.

Sunday afternoon county sponsored by a photographer made some pictures of the various playgrounds. At Newburg pictures were made of the Bobby Sox Softball Team.

The Newburg Recreation Center will hold their election of officers for the year 1947-48 some time this month, and will endeavor to hold the first year-end picnic for the first time in the history of the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board.

Middletown recreation is on the move.

CHARLIE FARMER SWIM MEET HERO

The Falls City A.A.U. swimming meet, sponsored by the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board, turned out to be quite a spectacle. More than 300 swimming fans witnessed the event and 105 boys and girls had their swim.

Much praise has been lavished on the county recreation board for the excellent manner in which the meet was handled. Lakeside team emerged victorious scoring 60 points.

While Betty Bruce Brown, Lexington, Ida Lou Stein, Colonial Heights, and "Tip" Evans drew the applause of the crowd for their expert performance it was little, 12 year old Charlie Farmer of Fairdale who showed them all what it means to have a fighting heart.

Charlie, hopelessly outclassed in the 50 yard free style, still had 25 yards to swim after the other contestants had finished the race and climbed from the pool. A boy, of less sturdy stock, would have quit at that point, but Charlie Farmer, who had never heard of the word, "Quit" and it was demonstrated by the heartiness of the 500 with his determination to finish the job. As he climbed from the pool judges, who had taken race winners for granted, moved over to shake the hand of the courageous lad who had won more than a race. He had won the respect of the crowd because he would not quit.

GOINGS ON AT HARRODS CREEK

CHARLES VETTINER, Editor.

The Jefferson Jacobs School Recreation Center was honored Thursday night, July 11th, with the presence of Miss Shirley Durham, our folk game supervisor, and Mr. Raymond Baer, the chief.

Folk games were played by both young and old. A Volley ball game between the men and boys on one side and the young women and girls on the other side was held. Mr. Bruce Weeden, our experts server and his team won the game. The competition was just a wee bit too much for the inexperienced young women.

Horse pitching by such veterans as Robert Brown, Millard Rudy, and Andrew Brooks thrilled the crowd.

Spectator's row at each of these events included many parents, a playground crowd well withers, namely, Madams Lillie Mae Taylor, Lucille Blanton, Gettelle Taylor, Minnie Pruitt, Gertrude Kenna, Maggie Weeden, Emma Schaudie, and Grandmother Brookline.

One of the enjoyable activities was a special folk dance, "Little Man in a Folk" superbly done by our supervisor, Rufus Stokes, Richard Trowell, Minnie Trowell, and Fieleya Brooks.

Miss Durham and Mr. Baer promised to come again soon for a special night of Square Dancing.

Cherrio until next time.

FUTURE AMERICA

Editorial

A group of eager kids surrounded county commissioner, E. P. White Jr., as he presented awards to winners at the Valley swimming meet Friday night.

Whether E. P. realized it or not he was getting a great thing for future America.

One little fellow won a medal by winning an 8 year old swimming event tugged on swimmer's I asked him to please move aside because he wanted to be the commissioner.

Youth was being served. Kids, swimming in that meet, would turn "thumbs down" on amusement provided in "joins." Swimming is their recreation.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff - did you encourage any county youngsters to enter that wholesome competition? Your back seat was missed when you arrived.

Didn't you think to invite a boy or girl your community to come along They would have loved you for it. Kids never forget what you do or fail to do for them.

My hat tip to E. P. who is interested to be asked to make the presentation to the youngsters' and I salute Max Sanders who showed the kids his love for them by serving as judge for their events.

Kids are interested in boys and girls is as great as your interest in them. If you brought a happy smile to some kid's face your life has not been in vain.

NATIONAL SAFETY COUNCIL

NATIONAL FARM SAFETY WEEK, July 27, 1946

The Fiscal Court In Action

JULY 10, 1946

Report was received and filed from County Treasurer James E. Tierney. The county's balance as of July 10 was $12,554.14.

Method and means of paying election workers on primary election day were discussed by the court. A definite decision was arrived at. Judge Barker instructed the county commissioners to hit upon a plan.

Leon S. Mayer, Attorney, appeared before the court in support of his promises that he could, with the proper contract and for 15 percent of funds collected, secure additional revenue for the county, based on assessments of distilleries owned by the first of September, 1946. County Attorney Steinfield was directed to work with Mr. Mayer in preparing a suitable contract.

D. V. Triplett of Vim Drive, appeared before the court to complain about the extension of the drainage ditch through his property to Gilmore Lane, and he was referred to Road Engineer Rollards for consultation. "If the county is guilty of any infraction they will desert, and if not the ditch will go through as planned."

Checks totaling $3,000.00 were returned by County Tax Assessor George Trager as a result of an unfavorable ruling by the Court of Appeals this Spring on the constitutionality of a law passed at recent session of the State Legislature.

A. B. Young, President of the Middletown Civic Club, appeared before the court in company with Colonel Tom Dover, Chief Claud Thompson, and Architect Stratton Hammon to present a deed for property in Middletown to the court for the erection of a fire station. Bids were ordered taken on the proposed new building, and as soon as the deed is checked for accuracy of description the county will accept the property. This will also be a police station.

Jaller George Berry and Architect Stratton Hammon appeared before the court in support of additional jail improvements and they were instructed to proceed.

J. L. Laker of Jeffersonville appeared before the court to request that Park Avenue, recently built by the residents living on each side of it, be closed with special county equipment and paid for by the residents. This expense was ordered figured by Road Engineer Rollards and the money will be collected and an insurance policy obtained before work was begun, to indemnify the county against any kind of suit resulting from injury or property damage.

Tom McGoff, Constable in the Third District, appeared before the court to request that his deputy, recently stricken from the pay roll by the Budget Commission, be allowed to stay on because of the increase in work. The court will take action on the matter shortly.

A large, old-fashioned iron safe, belonging to the sheriff's office, was ordered sold to the highest bidder, by the court.

C. L. McMann, representing the United Spanish War Veterans, appeared before the court to ask that they take an ad in the souvenir booklets being prepared in conjunction with this year's annual convulse. Members of the Court respectfully refused, on the grounds that they were pushed for so many donations that they could not personally oblige.

County Road Engineer Rollards asked the court's permission to hire J. A. Parnell to make a study of traffic light needs in the county. His request was referred to Commissioners Torstreich and Thacker for investigation and recommendation.

The question of the rabies epidemic in the county was brought to focus again in the court as a result of a nasty and deliberately spurious editorial in a recent issue of the Courier-Journal blaming the county government for lack of interest and effort in quelling the epidemic. Commissioner White was incensed that he suggested withholding funds allocated to the Louisville and J-

Trager put in his second appearance before the court to explain that three men in his employ were checking records in Frankfort to compare with county tax records in order to determine variations in filing, thus resulting in more income for Jefferson County. The Fiscal Court agreed to pay these men's expense which is estimated will run about $500 a week through September.

Court adjourned at 3:30 o'clock.

A Christian is sure to face the necessity of making decisions as to right or wrong in the course of conduct. The words are antonyms that imply a moral standard and accepted by groups of Christians or clearly revealed in God's Word. These decisions are important. They mean dangerous detours where life becomes more

'Taking It Easy' Reduces Accidents

Individual cooperation of the nation's millions of car drivers has, during recent weeks, brought about a change for the better in the traffic accident trend, with indications of continuing improvement in the months ahead.

Eugene Stuart, Secretary-Manager of the Louisville Automobile Club, declared today:

"The May total of traffic deaths was 20 per cent under the total for May 1941," Mr. Stuart said. "While official figures for June are not yet available, press reports of accidents for the July 4 indicate that motorists are continuing to 'Take It Easy' and through their own efforts are reducing accidents to a minimum."

"The heavy-traffic months and the high-accident winter months are still ahead of us and the final toll for the year is still unknown. However, the current trend gives rise to the hope that motorists generally are assuming individual responsibility to the extent that a sharp reduction in traffic accidents will be possible during the rest of the year."

"The President's Highway Safety Conference and the following campaigns have undoubtedly played a large part in stressing the dangers of the current traffic situation. But in the final analysis, the credit for the present improved record belongs to the motorists and pedestrians themselves. . . . the man behind the wheel and the person afoot. . . . every bold Jesus calls after practices have made possible the apparent halt in the steady climb of the traffic fatality curve since V-J Day."

"This increased spirit of cooperation is one of the most promising signs for future improvement of the traffic record. By taking it easy in the traffic lanes, motorists have done a real job for themselves and for the community and continuation of this cooperation will bring the safety savings of lives and property and assurance that use of the family car can be on a free and untrammelled basis."

Miss Elizabeth Standford of Western Teacher's College spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Standford.

A LOOK AT THE BOOK

DR. BOB JONES, JR.

There is in a church at Copenhagen a statue by Thorvaldsen depicting the Lord Jesus Christ extending the invitation, "Come unto me all ye that labour and are heavy of the mind, and I will give you rest" (Matt. 11:28). There is an interesting story in regard to the statue. It is said that when it was first placed in the church, a great art critic came to see it. As he stood before the statue, his face gave evidence of his disappointment in the work and his disapproval of it. A little child standing near said, "Oh, no, you are not looking at it right; you must go close to the statue and kneel and look up." Taking the advice of the child, the critic knelt at the feet of the marble figure of Christ and looking up, who came from that angle a full view of the sculptured features and was enraptured by the life-like beauty and sweetness of the face.

The story may or may not be true, but it illustrates a very important truth. The man who sees Jesus Christ rightly must look upon him as he is revealed in the Gospel Fellowship Association.

With a humble heart, Humanism approaches Jesus Christ with the attitude that here is a Man, the finest development to which the human race has ever attained. The humanist in the pride of his intellect cannot, standing with head erect and filled with the pride of a human heart, ever behold Jesus Christ as he is for though the only perfect Man that ever graced the earth. He is so much more than mere Man that the humanistic view of Him can never be the full and perfect view.

In accepting the invitation of the Son of God to "Come unto Me," we must come as those to whom the invitation is addressed—the weary and the heavy-laden, those who are weary and sorrowing and who come in simple, child-like faith, expecting to find the burden lifted and the need met. It is the pure, not the sophisticated, that find Him. The most restful position which the soul can know is the kneeling position. It is to be bowed thus that the burden can be lifted from the soul.

In my teen age days parties were acceptable social pastimes in the same town. I recall one such party where games like "Shoo the Buffalo" furnished the technique for rhythmic movements during the early part of the evening. Every one that could, furnished the rhythm by singing the inane words of this folk song. Some of the leaders got hoarse, and, I think a half of them must have become tired. Then, a man introduced a harmonica and played the same song. In an extreme case and introduced only to show how difficult it is at times for young Christians, at least, to make right or wrong decisions.

I am aware that modern life is far more complex. Customs change. Principles remain. The larger part of Paul's first Corinthian letter was devoted to this matter of what is right and wrong in Christian conduct. In chapter eight, he offers them spiritual guidance in the matter of eating "things offered to idols." He very graciously admits that all Christians have knowledge, but is more resultant factor that accompanies the "new birth." However, one must refrain from acting on knowledge alone. Knowledge alone is cold and often leads to conceit. Paul says "Knowledge puffeth up, but love edifieth."

In the process of making right or wrong decisions, love is more important than worldly wisdom. Love for God and in the spiritual situation. Be in the final analysis, the credit for the present improved record belongs to the motorists and pedestrians themselves. . . . the man behind the wheel and the person afoot. . . . every bold Jesus calls after practices have made possible the apparent halt in the steady climb of the traffic fatality curve since V-J Day."

Ways Studied To
To Reduce Farm Work

Economists concerned with saving time and labor in farm work were able to reduce the milking time from 143 minutes to 77 minutes at the Agricultural Experiment Station dairy at Lexington.

Re-arrangement of the work reduced the walking of workers three-fifths of a mile a day. It was found that the use of less milking equipment reduced both labor and time. Use of Peterson's rapid-milking procedure also helped. Principal points in Peterson's formula for milking cows are:

1. Establish a regular milking time and order for your cows and protect them from scares or distraction during the milking period.
2. Stimulate the cow to give down her milk by wiggling the udder with a warm, wet cloth about a minute before starting to milk.
3. Milk as rapidly as possible. With a machine the time can be cut down to 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 minutes for most cows.
4. Take the machine off just as soon as the milk is removed, being careful not to let the test cups crawl up into the udder.

Strip with the machine by pulling the test cups down into normal position and pressing gently on each quarter to get the last milk.

MISTAKES I MADE
One great mistake was made making my children feel that the greatest fun they had was when we went to town. There could have been so many pleasures at home - weiner roasts, spend-the-day parties, candy pulls, and many others. But I overlooked these and made the trips to town seem gala occasions. Since my children are grown they want to live in town. If I had shown them how many good times could have been enjoyed at home, they probably would have felt differently - Mrs. G. R. C. Georgia, in The Progressive Farmer.

Farm Scrap Needed by Steel Mills

The steel which weeks ago should have gone through the processing and fabricating channels - far behind schedule and, therefore, the American Iron and Steel Institute's Committee on Scrap has war-anted a complete return to normal in the flow of scrap cannot occur until the supply of new steel approximates the demand.

In the ten months from August 1945 through May 1946, production of scrap and steel for castings was 23,026,000 tons lower than output over the same period of 1944-1945. Presumably, better operating conditions would have enabled at least 19,000,000 tons of that total to have been produced. The 19,000,000 tons would have supplied the steel for 1,000,000 small dwellings, plus the steel for 1,700,000 automobiles, plus all the bale ties made for farmers over the last nine years, plus 50,000,000 one-quarter ton cans, plus a washing machine and a stove for every one of the 1,000,000 homes mentioned above - and still there would remain 7,500,000 tons of steel for other purposes, including the needed farm machinery and equipment.

The requirements for all goods - whether for the home, the farm, transportation, etc., will be fulfilled in direct proportion to the amount of the steel mills of scrap.

The GARDEN
By JOHN S. GARDNER
HOME SEED SAVING II
There is nothing difficult about saving beans at they come true at least 98 percent of the time, only the beans being capable of "mixing" them. The time of saving is elastic; one may wait until most of the pods are dry, although by this time mildew may have set in, and some beans are lost by shattering. A more orderly way is to make several pickings as the pods fade and become limp; the beans are sufficiently mature then.
The big obstacle is keeping beans weevil-free, bug-free, but it may be overcome in at least three ways:
Beans to be used for seed alone need only to be put into preserving jars with enough finely ground limestone shaken in to close all the spaces. While a few weevils may hatch, they will not multiply further.
Used for food, the beans may be "baked" for 30 minutes in a temperature of 130 degrees; overheating may produce a scorched flavor, and make the beans difficult to cook soft.
For beans to be used interchangeably for seed or food, the most efficient way is to gas them with carbon disulfide in this way: Fill a two-quart jar with beans; drop in 1 1/2 teaspoons of the chemical, close airtight and let stand for 24 hours. Pour them into an open vessel for all odor to leave, then put them into insect-proof bags and store in an airtight place. Clinging longer than 24 hours may kill the seed germ.
For larger containers, here are figures: one gallon, 3 teaspoons; a 50 pound lard can, 3 table-spoons, and for a 50 gallon barrel, 3 1/2 quarts.
Carbon disulfide is highly inflammable and explosive. Keep lights and fire away and handle always outside the dwelling, on a porch, for example.

Watch That Spray

"Weed 'em and weep" summarizes the experience of a good many gardeners and homeowners who did not pay careful enough attention to the warnings scientists issued in connection with the use of 2-4-D as a weedkiller on lawns.

The misfortune reported most frequently to the U. S. Department of Agriculture's experimenters is the killing of flowering plants and shrubs in beds bordering lawns sprayed with 2-4-D. The explanation is simple in most cases. When the lawn was sprayed, some of the 2-4-D was carried on the wind and affected the flowering plants. This emphasizes the killing power of 2-4-D in even minute quantities on most plants that do not belong to the grass family. To avoid this kind of trouble, spray the lawn only on a calm day, and in working near a flower bed direct the spray toward the bed, not toward it.

Another source of occasional trouble has been the use of the same spray equipment for 2-4-D and for a pest-control spray. The 2-4-D has emphasized repeatedly that it is necessary to wash and clean the equipment thoroughly after using 2-4-D. Four or five thorough washings with hot soapy water and repeated rinsing is essential. Take care of the pump and nozzle of the sprayer are cleaned thoroughly. Otherwise even 2-4-D may remain in the equipment to prove deadly to plants the gardener intends to protect with an insecticide or fungicide. A new treatment of 2-4-D will kill many plants and shrubs.

The summer and early fall is regarded as the best time for 2-4-D spraying of lawns. The weeds are still growing then, but as they are killed and leave bare spaces there is less danger that the thin spots will be taken over by crab grass and other weeds. It is well to re-seed bare areas that appear after the weeds are killed.

FARM FACTS
WORTH KNOWING
Q. How often should eggs be gathered?
A. During warm weather they should be gathered 4 or 5 times daily and less often during cool weather. As soon as the eggs are gathered they should be cooled to remove all animal heat.
Q. Do dairy calves show a greater rate of gain when fed on a dry feeding program or when fed on whole milk?
A. When fed on a dry feeding program. Records at the Ralston Purina Company's Research Farm show that calves raised on a dry feeding program consistently gained from 25 to 50 lbs. heavier at four months of age than calves raised on a whole milk program at good collets and private dairy farms, according to weights reported in Missouri Bulletin 336. Furthermore, this Purina dry feeding program actually costs only about half as much as whole milk feeding.
Q. Do rabbits require salt?
A. Yes. Rabbits require more salt than the human family. They are particularly susceptible to salt deficiency. Salt should be available to them at all times.
Q. In a dressed broiler, is a light or a yellow skin preferred?
A. The only preference is a consumer preference. Most purchasers prefer the darker color but there is probably no nutritional difference in the meat.
Q. Will colleges and universities admit students to participate in meat judging contests in the near future?
A. Yes. The National Livestock and Meat Board announces that it will again sponsor the international meat judging contests at the livestock shows held in the fall of 1946. The board also announces that it will again have the opportunity to put a practical test of meat judging ability to the students of its member colleges.

Potatoes Show Good Yield In This Area

According to the Louisville office of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, harvest of slightly increased acreage of Irish potatoes is underway in the Jefferson and Oldham county area.

Weather throughout the season has been almost ideal for potatoes, and yields are running far above average. The indicated production of 64,000 is 68% above the short crop last year and 40% above the ten-year average production, while the acreage of 1946 is said to be nearly 20% below the ten year average.

Onion harvest from the small acreage around Louisville, has begun but movement is slow due to poor marketing conditions. Tomato acreage is increased this year to near-normal. The crop is progressing nicely following favorable weather conditions. In the next 3 months comparatively large supplies of snap beans, cantaloupe, celery, cucumbers, Honey Dew melons, lettuce, onions, green peppers, spinach, tomatoes, and watermelons will be available, with the prospective crop of each larger than last summer and well above average.
